Dear Parents and Guardians of J.P. Case Middle School,

Recently, the US DEA's office and media outlets have reported on a new drug targeted directly at teens and pre-teens. The DEA warns of "Brightly-Colored Fentanyl used to target Young Americas". The drug appears to resemble candy and look very enticing to the younger population.

Please take a moment and review the information below from the US DEA website and GMA report.

I encourage you to view this information with your children and discuss the potential dangers as knowledge is an important component to prevention. As always, if you have any questions please reach out to your child's counselor and or administrator.

Sincerely,

Bob Castellano
